The witness was in bed sleeping when at approximately 3 a.m. he was awoken after feeling something touch his forehead. He opened his eyes and saw that his bedroom was flooded in a sort of red glow or color. He was lying on his back and he looked up the wall above his headboard and was shocked to see a "doorway" (portal?) coming out of the wall. There were two men side by side, and he could see a stairway going up into total darkness. The men appeared to be wearing leather jackets. They appeared to him as human and both had thick wavy black hair. One of them pointed what he thought was a gun at his forehead and for a second, he really thought he was going to be shot in the head.

He was partially paralyzed, but was able to raise his right arm enough to actually get a hold of the man holding the "gun" wrist. He then saw what looked like tiny blue lights where the open end of a gun's barrel would be. There was a red dull white light slightly larger than the tiny blue lights which went around the tip of the "gun" in a circle. He then realized that it was not a gun, but it was roughly the same shape of a handgun, only a little thicker down the barrel and tapering off where the lights were. It appeared to be made of some sort of shiny plastic. They placed the tip of the gun-like instrument against his forehead and at that point both men had a "perplexed" expression on their faces. It appeared that they were confused at whatever it was they may have been expecting to see. He managed to push the man's wrist up and away from his head, with what seemed to him with very little effort. He had the feeling that the 'men' were not allowed to resist him if he attempted to push them away. That is why he reasoned, afterwards, that he managed to push his hand away so easily. Suddenly they were just gone, and the wall was normal again. It took a while for him to be able to move normally, and he was able to see that his wife had slept right through the entire episode. There was a dim red glow on his ceiling for about ten or so minutes after they had disappeared. He could see reddish traces on the tiny lumps of his stucco ceiling for quite some time as it slowly dissipated. According to the witness he did not experienced any fear, except maybe at the time when he thought he was going to be 'shot', but even then not as much fear as he would have expected. It seems to the witness that the men, whoever they were, were able to control his emotions and his body. His wife has no recollection of anything out of the ordinary, or did his three adult sons. He has not had any further incidents.

The witness was walking back home after a day at work. On the roundabout he said goodbye to his colleague and went home. He had an early night planned because he was working the early shift the next day. After a short time he was cuddled in his bed with a 'Runners World' magazine to read. At about 11 p.m. he felt tired, switched off the light, and went to sleep. He woke up two hours later because he heard some strange noises near his front door. At first he thought it was her roommate coming in, but it was far too early for him to be back from work. The next thing made him jump out of the bed. It sounded like someone was trying to force entry into his flat. He grabbed his mobile, just in case he had to call the police. He ran to the kitchen to check who was at the front door. The only problem was that there was nobody there...and he still could hear the noise. He locked the doors up and down again and left the key inside, just to make sure that nobody could get in, and he went back to his room.

He always slept with his curtains open because he liked the moonlight falling into his room; only this time there was no moonlight. There were three 'children' outside his window and they had totally black eyes and pale looking faces. He felt an absolute and overwhelming sense of terror. He thinks they were all about the same age, but sensed they were very, very old. One child was repeating, "Let us in..." and knocking on the window. He knew that he couldn't do what he asked. He could sense danger as it had a smell attached to it. He doesn't know how else he could explain it. Anyway, the child was repeating, "Let us in...let us in...let us in..." constantly, and the witness jumped into his bed shaking and crying. Every time he heard the knock and the request, he shivered and cried. It went on for the next couple of hours and he doesn't know if he finally fell asleep or they departed. What he knows is that he woke up absolutely drained of energy. He prayed that this never happened again.

A few days before the humanoid encounter the main witness was about to go to bed and when she opened her bedroom door she saw a 3-ft in diameter neon blue sphere hovering outside. She got slightly close to the window where it 'zapped' and disappeared into nothing. Her partner was a bit behind and didn't see anything this was about 01:00 a.m. Soon after this incident she and her partner had gone out to walk in Broadmore Woods (per witness is the location of an infamous mental hospital) when suddenly 200 yards in front of them pass a 9ft by 4ft wide dark humanoid figure that just ran by and disappeared from sight.

The main witness was traveling with three of his friends on their 4-wheeled vehicles in a mountainous area. The witness, who was traveling ahead of the others signaled that he had to stop in order to satisfy a physiological need. He drove his 4-wheeler next to an irrigation canal which had on the other side woods and the mountains. As he performed his necessities he heard a noise behind him and when he turned to look he was speechless to see a strange creature about 20 feet away from him, walking very slowly in his direction. It was the strangest creature he had ever seen and was completely black, about 5-feet tall and walked upright like a human but it had rather long dangling arms which reached its ankles. Its legs were short and somewhat arched which made it looked "curved" like an old man. The witness could not see any facial features. The strange creature walked in front of the startled witness and stood on the edge of the irrigation canal and suddenly without any apparent momentum gain it took a tremendous leap (about 10 feet long) and landed on the other side of the canal. Once it had landed on the ground it walked into the brush and vanished. It had completely ignored the witness. The witness quickly mounted his 4-wheeler and drove to his friends, screaming in fright. He apparently returned the next day to the location and saw a trail of tracks that led into the brush.

The witness was driving to work, it was early and it was completely dark as she drove on a quiet street by the lake. She suddenly saw a cluster of bright white lights which at first she thought it was a helicopter. As she got closer she realized it was a triangular-shaped object with white lights at the corners and a red blinking light in the back. The object was only maybe 200 feet in the air and just hovered there. It was completely silent she rolled down her car windows as she approached the location of the object. There was not a noise to be heard, no birds, insects, as if the air 'wasn't moving'. As she drove toward the object it began to turn and slowly began to drift away toward the lake. She felt nervous approaching the object because she had to drive under it to continue driving. She parked her car and just stared at the object while it moved away although she couldn't remember actually leave. She just saw that it was gone and realized that 17 minutes had passed. When she first saw the object the clock said 5:48am, and when she realized that the object had gone it was 6:05am. She felt dazed and distracted and couldn't place what had happened. She went to work and immediately began to draw what she had seen. She almost felt obsessed with having to put down on paper what she had seen. She also felt the need to stand outside like she thought it was coming back.

Location. South Greensburg, Pennsylvania

Date: January 1 2013

Time: 15:00

Two women and a young boy decided to take a walk through a wooded area near South Greensburg to enjoy the beautiful scenery. It was about 32 degrees and clear visibility in the area. The area had a cover of snow from a previous storm. Around 3 p.m. the three people advanced into the woods and were looking at a tree that still had leaves on it. When they were about 20-25 feet from the tree, the two women saw something that startled them. The boy was apparently looking elsewhere. They both at the same time stated, "Did you see the size of that bird?" What they observed was what appeared to be a bird unfolding its huge wings. A witness described the wingspan as being approximately 6-7 feet wide, and described how the creature unfolded its wings and almost rolled them out, flapped them once and folded them back up as it moved along the ground behind the tree.

They immediately moved towards the area where the creature had been seen. They were only 20-25 feet away, yet when they got to the spot, the creature was nowhere to be seen. There weren't that many trees at that location, and the area was quite open. There were no bird tracks at the location, just deer tracks. They heard no sounds of flapping or other sounds when the sighting occurred. The two women were mystified as they could not explain how the winged creature seemed to suddenly disappear. As one of the women commented, "We would have seen it fly away but it didn't". The wings were described as black and gray in color. One woman said she thought she saw a blue tinge within the wings as well. The source asked one of the local bird experts for his thoughts. Both of them thought that the most likely candidate for what was observed was a Great Blue Heron which are seen around this area. The coloring would fit as well. He also speculated that if there was a crust on the snow cover, possibly the bird did not break through and leave any tracks. Another possibility is a Sandhill Crane. He said that the wingspan and coloring is quite similar to the Great Blue Heron. This man thought it was quite odd that at 25 feet distance the witnesses could not identify the bird if it was a Heron. He also indicated the Great Blue Heron does not fly fast as it lifts off to become airborne, and thought it was unusual that the women could not see it fly away from that nearby location. This baffles the witnesses as well.

This activity occurred on the outskirts of Mexico City. In the video provided we see a UFO flying over some houses and turning a little to give us a different view of it.

Also if you look closely at the photo in the bottom right corner, you will see what looks like a skull or head. Is this an actual alien and are we seeing only the inside (window area) of the craft while the actual craft is actually cloaked?

Date: January 9 2013

Greg Posada and Eugene Pointer called the paranormal hotline with their report of two werewolves seen near Grass Lake. They claim that these two creatures that appeared to be werewolves were definitely bi-pedal. One of the creatures had grayish hair, while the other had brownish hair. Both creatures had snouts. When the creatures were observed, they both seemed to be bent down drinking water from the lake. Eugene and Greg both claim that the creatures sniffed the air and then turned and looked at them. They let off a howl that sounded like a regular wolf and ran off into the nearby thickets. The encounter occurred around 1400 hours and Eugene and Greg were both shaken from this encounter. Greg says that the brown coated creature was at least 7 feet tall, while the gray coated creature was perhaps 6 feet tall. Eugene says that this is not the end of the story. After their encounter with the 'werewolves' it was no more than 10 minutes later, they spied a silver disc in the surrounding forest. The silver disc was hovering, tilted and then shot up into the sky. The sighting of the disc lasted only about 3 minutes, but during the time of the sighting everything felt surreal. Everything moved in slow motion. Eugene and Greg felt relaxed and at ease while they watched the disc in the sky. Eugene does not understand how they could have two paranormal encounters in one day.

The witness was watering plants in the backyard when suddenly she noticed a shimmering silver disc in the sky with flashing lights. It was a bit larger than the size of the sun, perhaps about the size of a football field in length, facing west. There seemed to be an auburn-colored smoky haze around the object and it was moving quite slowly. She watched for about 10 seconds, too shocked to react. And then it vanished, it seemed to fade away, almost as if it was camouflaging with the evening sky. Strangely, right after the ship disappeared she found herself in the kitchen, but doesn't recall walking all the way across her yard and up the steps to unlock the door.

The witness was outside in the backyard when the object was first seen. "I heard something humming behind me," the witness stated. "Looked behind me to find a giant, black triangle-shaped craft hovering above the power lines behind my house." The object was first visible in a reflection. "I first noticed the object through a reflection on my screen door so I turned around and the craft just hovered above the power lines behind my house. It had a few windows around it and a small beam of light had shot down from the middle below the craft." The witness described the object as black in color and shaped as a triangle, with about four giant circular lights below the craft all completely white in color, and then the middle light shot down this large beam of yellow light down onto the power lines which affected the witness' cellphone.

It had maybe about five windows on the front side but he saw absolutely no one onboard until the craft changed directions and then he saw about 10 small, 4-feet tall figures aboard the craft looking down at either the controls inside the craft, down at the power lines or down at the witness. The witness felt completely shocked and once it started leaving he followed it until the fence cut him off in his yard and then just continued staring at it until it left at fast speed.

The witness (involved in a previous encounter) would normally head outside his backyard around 7:00 pm to get some fresh air. He stepped outside for around thirty minutes and continued standing in the middle of the yard just looking around in the sky with his binoculars. Around 7:43 pm something caught his attention, he happened to glance out to his left to see something that looked like a huge chunk of metal hovering in the air slowly. He removed the binoculars and stared at the unknown object for around ten minutes. The object stayed in one single place in the sky and never moved for about an hour. He could easily see the object with the naked eye. It was completely dull in color, the shape of a disk and it rotated for around an hour. He estimated to have been the size of a football field and as long as two eighteen wheelers. On the bottom of the craft which was silver in color was what appeared to be burnt marks. Either burnt marks or rust he couldn't tell.

Around 8:01 pm the object hovered closer to his house right over the center of the yard. Its shadow completely covering the yard, he couldn't see much underneath the craft until it stopped rotating. He could count about thirty five windows around it, none of which were lit except for two. Strangely enough the craft suddenly emitted a loud humming sound which made the witness to briefly lose consciousness. He awoke several minutes later staring up at some kind of blinding ceiling, the room was wide with some controls and tables and strange looking tools. Out of the corner of his right eye he spotted a figure which looked to be about five feet tall. Behind it was another figure and then another. He counted three in total as they walked towards him and looked down at him. One of the beings began to mumble something in a strange language he couldn't understand. The being placed its arm behind him as he stood up on the table while the being gave him a strange looking book. He didn't see anything lettering on its cover but inside he saw images or pictures of the human species both male and female. He was made to understand that the human species had overpopulated the earth. The being added that they had been given 'the right' to abduct humans by order of the government and our leaders. The alien claimed that their species was becoming extinct and it was known as the "Vetrolment". The witness was eventually taken back inside his house and was told by the alien that they had not 'experimented' on him.

small, 3-4 feet in height, dark gray entities, about 15 of them. One of them was seated on the floor one was doing a one-handed hand-stand (it looked malevolent?). The others were standing, looking at her, seemingly as scared of her as she was of them. They had slim, humanoid bodies, proportional heads and bodies, with no more than 10-20% body fat. Their faces were flat, he couldn't see their noses and mouths, and he couldn't see any genitals. They had the darkest bushiest eyebrows/eyes and were composed of only 2 colors, with their bodies a dark gray, and their eyes, the darkest charcoal gray. "They looked like Spiderman's enemy, Venom, only smaller versions." The witness got up and yelled, "Oh my God, oh my God!!" ran past them (because the bedroom door was behind them) into her daughter's room. When she came back about 2 minutes later, they were gone.

The 40-year old witness was out taking his usual walk. During his walks he is very observant, always looking around, in the lookout for anyone possibly trying to rob him. He did not see anyone around but all of the sudden he looked to his left and there was a girl. It was like she had appeared out of nowhere. He did not hear her approaching. She was about 4 feet from him. Normally if someone was walking nearby he could hear them. The girl appeared to be in her early 20's; she was about 5' tall and small framed. He could tell that she was an adult and not a child. She had shoulder length bright blonde hair that looked almost white. Her eyes were black with no white showing. She was wearing sweat pants and a hoodie, but the hood was not covering her head. When he saw her, he said, "Hi, how you doing this evening?" She mumbled something, but he could not hear what she said. She moved her head back and forth as she stood there checking him out curiously. He felt there was something not quite right about her and felt a definite chill. Thought it was cold outside, the chill was not due to the weather. He cautiously took a few steps towards her and she backed up. In a moment she took off running, but not like any human or animal he had ever seen. She ran with a fluid movement and there was no sound as her feet hit the ground. She quickly disappeared out of sight.

Recently in this area there have been sightings of an entity with simian characteristics, an elongated muzzle and considerable agility apparently related to attacks on farm animals. On this night, at around 23:30 the Hernandez family was in the back of their property involved in an appetizing cookout when suddenly Mercedes Hernandez, who was concerning herself with the meat roasting on the grill, felt "someone" tossing cherries at her. Her first thought was that a family member was playing tricks on her, but faced with the shower of cherries that were falling around her she managed to determine that the action emerged from a nearby tree. The tree was no more than 10 meters distant from the place where the meat was roasting, and she approached it. Her initial impression was to feel that someone was chewing, making noises as they ate something. But upon coming closer, she noticed a pair of shiny, reddish eyes looking at her from the middle of the tree. The being---or whatever it was---rested in a seating position, settling between two branches in a "T" shape. Given the strangeness of what she was seeing, she immediately called her husband, who also saw the being and thought to grab a water hose to scare it away with a well-aimed stream. While this action was taking place, the strange entity leaped from the tree with tremendous strength, jumping over a wall or partition adjoining a neighboring property, containing pens with geese and ducks. Being that it was a splendid moonlit evening; Mercedes was able to make out the details of the being's physical characteristics.

Mercedes oral description disclosed characteristics similar to other sightings made elsewhere in the world, although here, according to the witness, there was a larger corporal mass, which she noticed when the strange being leaped from the tree to the nearby partition. This sudden action caused several tree limbs to shatter right to the top, even giving the impression that the tree had split in two. Furthermore, Mercedes added: "The leap and the creature's dropping to the other side of the wall was very forceful, and the sound was perfectly audible." Mercedes also stated that she was certain that there was a sign of intelligence in the creature's pitching cherries at her back, and she even thought for a moment that it was interested in the meat being roasted. She also added that on that day, her favorite pets---a Maltese dog and a cat---were restless the entire day, and that at the time of the sighting, ran and hid under a washbasin, whining and growling in true fear and dread. Mercedes's husband confirmed his spouse's impressions. He confessed that his initial intention was to hose it down with the garden hose but he didn't get to do this, as the strange creature's leap was sudden and startling.

The witness was sitting by a window across from a highway and a large cliff. She would usually look off into the cliff/hillside and stare after working with her laptop, possibly in an attempt to gain inspiration for her writing. One day as she took a pause from her writings she looked towards the cliff to see the red soil and dry grass covering a majority of the hill, that's when she saw something moving on two legs. It didn't seem to be walking but glided. In the time it would take four or five cars to pass the main street, this thing had cleared almost the entire hillside, and started disappearing from view. Whatever it was it wasn't in the shape of any human she had ever seen. It was some sort of huge figure/creature pitch black from head to toe its body was textured like it had fur, and probably about 8-9 feet tall. When she first saw how fast it was moving, before she thoroughly observe it she thought maybe it was someone riding a horse. But it couldn't have been that because she noticed it was moving both of its legs. The strange dark figure eventually glided from sight of the witness.

The witness was driving home from work and was only two miles from her residence located in a very rural area south of Falls Village. The roads were still dark from the heavy snow they had received so she was driving very deliberately. All at once, a deer jumped from behind a snow bank and bolted in front of her car. She slammed on the brakes but still skidded into the back of the deer. She didn't see where the deer went, but she was not stuck in the snow bank. She got out and noticed that her driver's side headlight was smashed as well. She tried to push the car out of the snow bank but it was not budging. So she had no other choice but to call for a tow truck.

About 15 minutes after she called for help one of her neighbors was on his way home and stopped to ask if he could help. She told him that she had called for a tow truck but she didn't know how long it would be before it showed up. He said he would go home get some chains and return with his 4-wheel drive pickup in order to pull her out. She thanked him and he left. Not long after her neighbor left, she noticed lights coming toward her on the road. The lights were large and very bright, so she figured that it was the tow truck. As the lights slowly proceeded towards her, several more lights illuminated above and below the others. The vehicle or whatever it was, stopped about 50 yards from her and remained there for several minutes. Then all of the sudden she saw a brightly lit 'being' floating through the woods across from her. It reminded her of those bright white aliens from the 'Cocoon movie' though she didn't see any facial features. This being quickly floated through the trees then out onto the road. It started to come toward her but she was petrified and could not move. It didn't have arms or legs but there was definitely a head and something on the end that resembled a fish tail. It stopped directly in front of her and hovered no more than 10 feet away. There were no eyes or mouth, but she did feel warmth coming from it. It was very calming and comforting. Then it suddenly whisked towards the lights. After a few minutes the bright lights started to fade until they were completely gone. Her neighbor soon returned as well as the tow truck operator. She asked them both if they had noticed any vehicle with intense bright lights but they both looked at her like 'she was crazy'. After they pulled her from the snow bank she drove home, quickly took a bath and headed for bed. She was still feeling the calming sensation and desperately wanted to go to sleep.

Looking outside he saw a hovering triangle-shaped craft hovering at about 50 meters away. He went back to bed and saw what looked like a "hand" on the wall just above the bed, he tried to wake up his wife but she was fast

After 15 seconds the 'hand' just vanished and the witness then thought that he had been dreaming but at that moment his wife suddenly opened her eyes and they were completely black "as the night". He tried to shake her awake but to no avail. He then heard a soft whispering sound at the foot of the bed, he looked up and saw a short blue 'alien' at that moment his wife 'woke' up and looked at it as well. They stared at it for about 30-40 seconds then they both passed out and they both experienced the same 'dream' of handing each other red glowing orbs. At 3am they again woke up with a headache and neck pain.

Four men were driving through pastures checking on crops and cattle when suddenly a strange fireball-like object came swooping down the tree line and landed on the pasture. At that moment their truck radio went to static and all the watches stopped working. They drove closer to the object and as they neared they were overwhelmed by its size. At this moment they all began to feel sick to their stomachs. They looked around and all the cattle had run away and were hiding behind a nearby barn. As they turned back around they saw a human-like figure 'eject' from the rear of the craft and land on the pasture, it was glowing white in color. It was hard to see any details on the figure. The main witness then exited his truck and began to search for his rifle when the figure began making strange foreign noises. He thinks it was a form of communication. The figure began walking around the pasture apparently looking for the cattle. It never seemed to acknowledge that the witnesses were present. It then began to walk towards the barn and the main witness screamed and ran towards the figure. The figure stopped and stared directly at the witness, it appear to mean no harm but it 'had a terrifying stare'. As the witness approached it, the figure took off in a sprint, jumped into the air and into craft which then took off and disappeared towards the south at high speed.

During the months of February and early March several residents living in the communes of Peñaloen and La Reina both Santiago suburbs have reported seeing a strange flying creature which perches on trees close to local residences.

Businessman, F. A. reported that one night close to 23:00 while sitting in his garden in an attempt to cool himself from the oppressive heat was suddenly stunned to see a strange creature resembling a 'flying manta ray' estimated to have been almost 2 meters in height, dark in color and with what the witness described as a peculiar 'gelatinous texture'. The flying creature descended and perched itself on top of a nearby tree at which point the witness noted that it had bright reddish colored eyes. The witness ran into his house and armed himself with a wooden club in order to defend himself if necessary. But at this point the creature took off and left the area. Other witnesses describe the creature as resembling a 'giant bat'. Both communes are located close to the periphery of the Cordillera.

A man, 58-year old Juan Domingo Leguizamon from the town of Rio Ceballos is reportedly missing after leaving a letter in his truck addressed to his daughter in which he left instructions stating 'not to look for him' that he was going to meet with 'UFOs'. Apparently he did not take any personal property with him and was last seen on a Saturday night. The letter was addressed to his daughter 'Belen'. Soon after finding the letter Belen notified the local police regiment to report the incident. According to the police there is now an active search for Mr. Leguizamon who apparently did not suffer from any mental illnesses.

According to police commissioner Mario Tornavaca, Leguizamon stated that he had been 'summoned' by the extraterrestrials and to not bother in searching for him since it had been his decision alone. The search includes the Fire Department, the Civil Defense and a division of trained blood or track hounds. Leguizamon was considered a very stable individual who was retired but still held a job. According to his daughter, Belen, Leguizamon had taken a recent interest in the UFO phenomenon and had visited the area of Cerro Uritorco a known hotspot for UFO encounters.

Patricia, age 27 at the time---was in the kitchen of her house. The time was around 17:15 hours and having completed some chores, she was taking a break. Patricia's kitchen has a window from which the trees of neighboring houses can be seen. Specifically, a palta (avocado tree) located in the backyard of a neighboring property. She was looking at the bough of this tree when something caught her attention. According to Patricia, she saw what she described as "a little man staring back at me" from between the branches and leaves of the tree. The "entity" in question (according to Patricia) was in a squatting position and staring at her fixedly. Alarmed, Patricia ran and called for her husband, who was in another part of their home, to show him what was on the tree. When her husband reached the kitchen and looked through the window, he saw nothing unusual. He tried to calm her down (Patricia was excited and kept repeating "I swear I saw it, it was in the trees, looking at me"), and a few moments later, knowing the interest of one of the sources (Carlos Sainz), she went to his house to tell him about the experience. Patricia said the being reminded her of the character "Gollum" from The Lord of the Rings saga. She estimated its height at around one meter, despite not having seen the figure upright. It was very thin, hairless and with whitish eyes, "huddled" between the branches of the avocado tree. She stressed the fact that it stared fixedly at her. According to the source Patricia is a person with no interest whatsoever in the UFO phenomenon or in strange "events", and is not in the least bit fantasy prone. According to the source who emphasizes that he doesn't think it has anything to do with what Patricia saw (but does not know it for a fact) in the months following the apparition, one of the residents of the house adjacent to the avocado tree (a neighbor, known to the source) contracted a serious malady. Weeks later, in 2014, sadly this person committed suicide on account of this malady.

The witness woke up from a sound sleep to the sounds of her back door knob rattling. She had just rented a small house in the country and it was her third night there. She reportedly saw a strange creature (or alien) staring at her through the window at the top of the old door on the back porch. As soon as the creature saw that she was looking at it, it ran off.

Apparently the creature came back around 21:30 on the 14th she had been texting a friend when she saw it at the same window, so she quickly began taking pictures with her cellphone. She took approximately 50 photos from all different angles and with it turning its head. She even got pictures of the figure (whatever it was) apparently cloaking itself.

She had the feeling it was trying to 'lure' her to the door. It was reptilian in appearance, it had eyes very similar to a 'gray' alien, but it had scales on its head and its shoulders. It also had bony spike shapes over the skull and she could see was three fingers. It was approximately 7ft tall and looked strong. It stared directly into her eyes, when she moved, its head moved. When its head turned she saw wrinkles on the neck, the nose was flat and it had no lips. It appeared to have projected images onto the glass and was 'shape shifting'. A black spot seemed to appear on the center of its face and then it shifted into what looked like a 'clown with a gift in its hands. According to the witness it also shifted into the image of an old man dressed like a priest.

Rangers patrolling the Way Kambas National Park (TNWK) in Lampung claim to have sighted dozens of pygmies in a number of areas across the park. According to them, the pygmies sport dreadlocks, measure no more than 50 centimeters tall and do not wear any clothing. "A number of rangers claim the pygmies grow their dreadlocks down to their waist. The first sighting by the rangers was on March 17 at 6:40 p.m. local time," said TNWK spokesman Sukatmoko. He added that several rangers patrolling the park claimed the pygmies were seen moving to the PT Nusantara Tropical Fruit (NTF) plantation. They were seen running from the TNWK forest to the plantation.

"Apparently, many fruit trees, such as banana, guava and dragon fruit, are grown in the NTF plantation area. If the pygmies like fruit, they might have entered the plantation for food," said Sukatmoko. Forest rangers have secured a number of points at the border between TNWK and PT NTF, concerned that the safety of the pygmies is at stake due to the presence of many workers at the plantation. "We will try to anticipate the situation with the help of local residents and PT NTF employees. If they come across the pygmies, they should not harm them," he said. Sukatmoko said that based on information conveyed by forest rangers, the group of pygmies consisted of around 15 individuals. When the rangers spotted them, they pygmies, believed to be an isolated group of people, were walking through a swamp. "The rangers monitored their presence for around 15 minutes from a distance of around 35 meters. When the rangers were about to approach them, they immediately hid behind trees and vanished. They ran very fast," said Sukatmoko.

He added that on March 20, patrolling rangers sighted the pygmies again in the same place, but this time they observed from further away and for a shorter time. Sukatmoko said his office was unsure whether the pygmies had always lived in TNWK, or whether they were newcomers from other islands. To record their presence, the TNWK center has installed surveillance cameras in the forest.

"We can record pictures of the pygmies at night. After its proven they exist, we will immediately inform the Forestry Ministry, or even the President," he said. Sukatmoko promised his office would protect the pygmies and not disturb them. "We believe they really exist in TNWK. We're making strenuous efforts to find them. In the event that we do, we hope the government protects them. Our rangers have seen them with their own eyes, but have yet to take pictures of them," he said, adding the center had allowed academics and researchers to trace and study the group. Indonesian Forum for the Environment (Walhi) Lampung chapter campaign director Mukri Friatna said the pygmies had been sighted in a number of forests in Indonesia, such as in Kerinci Seblat (West Sumatra), Liang Bua (Flores) and Bone (South Sulawesi). "In Kerinci Seblat, hey are known as the Orang Pendek (short people), in Flores as homo floresiensis, and in Bone as members of the Oni tribe. In Mount Kerinci, the creature is depicted as having inverted legs but is very agile among the dense foliage," said Mukri.

It should be mentioned at this point that the main goal in taking these photographs was to obtain night photographs of the impressive archway that represents two intertwined mermaids that are found in Plaza Fundadores itself. However, much more than that was obtained: it should be noted that those strange luminous beings were not visible at the time the photos were taken. Mr. Fernando Diaz, a local resident was headed to work as usual Mr. Diaz was driving along PR-3, one of the island's main thoroughfares. The sky was light at that time of the morning, although the sun was not fully out yet. Mr. Diaz was driving his blue 2001 Hyundai Brio at an approximate speed of 35 miles per hour, heading from the town of Guayama to the town of Salinas. As he approached kilometer 3.0, right in front of the facilities of the Division de Transito y Vehiculos Hurtados (Traffic and Stolen Vehicles Division) of the Guayama State Police, he noticed that the vehicle ahead of him began zigzagging, as if trying to avoid something. When he looked he could see something strange coming over the vehicle---something he had never seen before. It was an enormous dark-winged figure that appeared to have collided against the vehicle in front of him, and was trying to stand up in an effort to take flight. His first impression was that it was a gigantic bird. The creature never had enough time to get up off the ground and struck the grille of Mr. Diaz's car head-on. With the same momentum, it continued sliding along the vehicle's hood until it struck the windshield, continuing to slide off the hood. Mr. Diaz stepped on the brake, terrified at the sight, and brought his vehicle to a sudden halt. Luckily there were no cars behind him. After stopping, he looked through the rear-view mirror to see exactly what he had hit, but was unable to see anything. Although the event lasted only seconds, Mr. Diaz was able to take in considerable details of the creature that hit his car. According to his description, the creature had a broad face like a Pit-bull Terrier. It had a short snout and nose resembling that of a dog. Its eyes were small, human-sized, but completely dark and glossy. It had something like ears on either side of its head. It had no feathers; its skin was like a bat's and although he thinks it may have had hair, it was short and smooth along the body. The creature was black or dark brown in color, and seemed to have arms aside from wings---that is to say, it had six extremities: two legs, two arms and two wings. Its feet appeared to have multiple toes with claws, and its extended wings resembled those of a bat. Mr. Diaz noted that the wings appeared to stretch out from two to three feet on either side of his vehicle. A 2001 Hyundai Brio measures exactly 5 feet and 8 inches wide, meaning that if we round it off to 6 feet and add a minimum of two additional feet to each side, we would be talking of a creature whose wingspan was 10 feet from wingtip to wingtip. Mr. Diaz admitted to us that the first thing that came to his mind was that he had seen the 'Devil'.

Despite his fear, he could see that the vehicle ahead of him was pulling into a Gulf station some 400 meters ahead on the right side of the road. Once there, he saw the driver of the other vehicle---a white Toyota Corolla---stepping out. Excitedly, Mr. Diaz asked him: "Did you see that?!" Both drivers spent a few minutes discussing the awful experience, but since they had to reach their respective workplaces, decided to continue their journeys. They decided not to make a formal complaint to the police, since they were certain no one was going to believe them and would probably consider it a joke, and mock them. Mr. Diaz told his co-workers about the event and one of them accompanied him back to the site at around 10:00 a.m. to see if they could find the thing that hit his vehicle, but there were no traces to be found.

After exchanging stories about bizarre dreams and scary stories the 12-year old witness had gone to bed and had thought to himself that it "would be fun" to make up a nightmare to scare his friend on the bus journey to school. He remembers he had fallen asleep with his light off, but when he woke up his light was on. What woke him up was an odd pressure on his chest, like something 'was sitting on it'. He hastily opened his eyes to see this fat, ugly, green thing surrounded in a very dark green mist. There was a sound of bells, the kind you hear what there is a train coming. It was deafeningly loud sound that actually hurt his ears. The thing or entity was right in front of his face now, a mere inches between the witness' and it. It began laughing, an awful loud cackling laugh as if it was mocking him. He tried to scream for help, but he was scared silent. It must have recognized this because it then became dark red and the laughing became much darker and more sinister. The witness thought he was going to die. Suddenly, his mom came rushing into his room to find him sitting bolt upright with tears streaming down his cheeks. She simply hugged and said, "It's ok..." Also remarkable was that it was traveling at a very high rate of speed; perhaps 25mph and that it was not bobbing up and down as you would expect a runner to be. There were others in their hotel standing on their decks and pointing. Another couple came out and said they had seen it as well. He had gone to let his dog out into the garden, to do his toilet before locking the house down for the night and had walked around the back of his house to keep an eye on the dog when suddenly he saw what looked like a Huey helicopter, the kind normally seen on films about Vietnam, with a door gunner except it was transparent as it was bright orange and gave off a bright orange light. It looked like it had no tail and made no sound at all and was hovering at first and then started to fly overhead and as it did so at one point it was level with the witness where he could see through it and could see what looked like a pilot in a white helmet and a green flying suit like RAF pilots wear and in the position that would have been the door gunner was what looked like a human man but with either a dark Navy blue uniform on resembling the uniform British police would wear but with no helmet or cap. The 'pseudo helicopter' flew overhead with no sound, going slowly at first but then picking up speed and going faster than a normal helicopter would. It picked up speed and in only a few seconds it was several miles away, it then stopped and began to hover and the entity that was at the door gunner position apparently had seen the witness as it suddenly changed direction and started to come back towards him but only came back to about a quarter of the distance it had flown away and then made a 90 degree turn and shot off at great speed vanishing from his line of sight in only seconds. The witness insists that the object moved faster and differently than a normal helicopter and the entity standing at the door remained standing at all times, something impossible for a human to do. He did not see any tail rotors or main rotor blades on top.

That was a very unusual event. The trip was rather longer than she usually drive and after supper in Stockbridge she was getting into the last stretch of the drive on Massachusetts Route 20 looking in vain for the road to the Baird Tavern Bed and Breakfast they had booked for that night. It was just getting toward twilight. They had passed through Lee and were in the area of Becket when she noticed first one and then two cars following her close behind. Both of these cars looked rather identical in the rearview mirror. They were both shiny late model mini-Suv type vehicles and both had their parking lights on but not their headlights. The one directly behind her had tinted windows but she could not tell about the rear vehicle. The parking lights of both vehicles looked absolutely identical and that struck her as slightly odd. She mentioned to her companion that she was about to pull over so these cars could pass her and she could call the B & B for further instructions and then she pulled off to the side of the road at the Becker Fire Station. To her great surprise the cars that were right behind her did not pass her because they had absolutely disappeared. They got some updated directions and a minute later proceeded on their way and she would have probably forgotten about the disappearing tailgaters in short order. But only a minute or two down the road they saw what appeared to be a slight young man walking down the left side of the road in the same direction they were driving. This was a much wooded area and there was nothing nearby with which to judge his height. They were otherwise alone at that time on the road. On his back was what appeared to be a light gray backpack with a darker horizontal stripe. As she drove closer to him she saw a black hood on his head which seemed to be coming from his shoulders rather than from the base of his neck. This also struck her as very odd, so that when she passed him at a relatively slow speed she took a good look back at him and to her surprise and slight horror saw only the solid pitch black hood and no face or indication of a head. She was very spooked, as it was not so dark that she should not have seen a face. In a state of confusion and bewilderment she drove on to the Baird Tavern B & B. When they arrived they were both very happy to get there. It is a beautiful place built in 1768. The witness does not know if the anomalous experience had anything to do with her next day's Lightfield experience, but there is purportedly an opening to other dimensions within that technology.

The witness, Pamela (involved in other encounters) reported a terrifying experience one night. She had gone to bed that evening about 10 pm. It was a normal evening and she was not feeling different in any way. In the middle of the night she suddenly awoke. She believes it was the early hours of the morning as it was still dark, but she did not check the exact time. She found that she could not move her body, only her head. She looked around and saw the left side of a strange being. It had blue-gray colored skin and looked slender. It was reaching out and gripping hold of her left arm. The being's arm was long and extremely thin. The figure was emerging from what she could only describe as a "portal" coming through the wall over the bed. This portal spiraled into the wall and was a glowing silver color. It reminded her of liquid metal. It was no more than a couple of feet across. Pamela was absolutely terrified of what was taking place. She tried to scream but her voice came out muffled. Panicking, she struggled to move but found she could not. Then she felt herself blacking out, almost as if she had been sedated. It was still dark in the room, but everything was back to normal. Despite the fact she was still extremely scared she managed to drop off to sleep again.

In the morning Pamela awoke to the sound of the alarm and got ready to take her children to school. She pushed what had happened to the back of her mind and just put it down to a vivid nightmare. But despite this in the days following the incident she found it extremely frightening to be alone in the room. She would only go to sleep if one of her children was also present. Also after the incident her pet cat would not come into the room.

So she did, then it held her too tight and she attempted to get it off her. She felt very strong and threw it off her. He came back again. At that point she felt scared and could not remember anything else. In the morning she tried to remember what happened, she felt as if they had wanted her to "nurture" the small being. According to the witness she has been abducted "on numerous occasions during her lifetime". The beings communicated telepathically.

At 19:00 on Tuesday May 14th the witness was walking his dog with his girlfriend when they saw a cat besides the sidewalk trap something in its paws, suddenly a light from whatever it trapped and the cat let go. The witness then saw what resembled a small praying mantis fly off and disappear. On the above date as he lay in bed the bed sheet by his right foot was raised up and 'knew' that a clamp was going to be placed on his foot. He relaxed and thought "Let it be". He then saw a vision of two silver rooms, he moved through a brilliant partition into one of the silver rooms and saw a brown human head suspended in the air and fragments of other things suspended in the air. It seemed like 'chaos' and his mind was breaking, he only could repeat "I am that I am, I do not allow you to hurt me", then his dog charged into living room like someone was in the house, he immediately got out of bed and went to the living room and saw a gray shoebox slide from outside the patio through the sliding glass door and under his chair in the living room. He sat up for an hour in the living room.

At 01:45 a.m. he went back to bed and fell asleep right away. He then had a vision/dream that he was in a white room looking down at 2 8x8 foot square gray mattresses set diagonally from one another, he then had a feeling he was one of the beds, he then heard a voice that said "Enlightenment". At 04:30 a.m. he opened his eyes and saw a small 'Led' light outside the bedroom window behind a Japanese Maple Tree, it moved slowly down casting the shadow of the tree on the sheer curtain, and then another light appeared and was moving sideways. From it, more began appearing and then a great flash of light like fireworks and a 5 foot in diameter counter-clockwise spiral with thousands of small lights appeared, the swirl sped up and shrunk down to two volleyball sized bright orbs and flew off to the west leaving a trail of small lights 'like a meteor'. At 09:36 a.m. while sitting in his chair in the living room having coffee and logging onto the computer his dog leaped at the glass sliding door barking as if an intruder was around. He turned to look and behind the picket fence he saw a brown alien face and black eyes looking at him it then moved horizontally and out of sight. His dog and the witness then rushed to the front door, the dog stood around the door sniffing as he walked to the picket fence but found nothing. The alien's skin was like brown leather and it had large oval-shaped eyes. He later noticed that one of the branches on the Japanese maple tree seemed to have made a 180 degree turn growing back into the trunk.

The witness was standing on a porch looking across the street into a pasture where about 20 cows were grazing when he saw something move by a tree just above the lower pasture. He kept his eyes there when a strange figure appeared. It looked really tall, 7 to 10 feet, very thing, stick-like. He could see very long fingers on the hands. It was approximately 20 feet from a cow that it appeared to be watching. The witness then moved in an attempt to obtain some binoculars. As soon as he moved the figure sprinted toward the woods at the base of a small mountain/hill. The stride it made was amazing to see. The sprint was more like speed walking---very smooth, quick, long strides almost gliding with leg and knee movement. It was grayish brown and blended perfectly with trees. As he saw it enter the tree line, it paused and looked back over the pasture toward the witness. The witness then left the scene momentarily to retrieve a pair of binoculars. When he got back with them he scanned the tree line where he last saw it and saw it just peeking around a tree and part of its leg past the tree. Then it just disappeared. A few months after this incident the same witness reported a dream-like encounter with aliens who communicated telepathically.

He struggled to turn his head and saw many people lying on these metal beds just like the one he was on. He focused on one in particular which he realized was his sister it seemed that everyone was in some state of unconsciousness. At this point he realized that something was very wrong, panicked and attempted to free himself. He then realized that he was surrounded by short beings, they were grayish in color and seemed oblivious to the fact that he was trying to fight his way out of the restraints. Suddenly out of nowhere a bright light appeared and another being appeared, this one was taller and had a more oval shaped head with indentations in it and it was almost tan in color. It communicated with him telepathically and the witness asked it what it was doing to them and it said, "We are looking at your DNA." He then asked it why it was doing this to us and it replied, "All humans have alien DNA, but not all humans have the same alien DNA" He asked it where they were from and it said, "We come from Sirius" and it also told him that they have been coming to him for a long time. At that point it disappeared and his fear returned and he started screaming from the top of his lungs, the next thing he remembers is jumping up from his bed screaming and waking up everybody in the house.

The main witness was sleeping next to her boyfriend when she suddenly woke up to the sound of him angrily cursing. She groggily lifted her eyes to see what was going on and as soon as she glanced over she could see that not only was he passed out, but there was a figure by the bed staring at them. She immediately began to hyperventilate because 'she was already sure she knew what it was'. She shut her eyes, completely terrified. She attempted to scream to wake her boyfriend---that's when she really started to go into a panic. She was completely paralyzed and could hear her heart beating out of her chest. She slowly opened her eyes to see if the figure was still there and to her horror it was---she just couldn't stand to look at it but what she saw was 5 feet tall with a large oval-shaped head on a naked, thin body.

She quickly darted her eyes away so she wouldn't have to look in its eyes and what she saw standing at the foot of her bed almost scared her even more. The way it stared at her 'violated her' very deeply and it was difficult to break eye contact even though that's all she was trying to do, at the same time desperately trying to scream and jerk her boyfriend awake. The 'thing' at the foot of the bed was so short she could only see its shoulders up. She estimated it to have been about 4 feet tall, perhaps a little more. The face resembled an ant with a slightly protruding nose/mouth area even though she doesn't remember seeing any nose/mouth to speak of. Its eyes were large and black, and its skin looked kind of dark gray, and maybe rough. She had an instinctual impulse and tried to act on it---so she tried to concentrate and use all of her willpower to kick it. It looked at her feet and instantly an intense burning pain was shot into them and the witness felt like she was going to have a heart attack if the intensity of the situation didn't end. Then what happened is really hard to describe. This thing that was now inflicting pain on her, and appeared to be conjuring energy around its body or dematerializing, she couldn't tell, making it look that there was a 'transparent hologram' of it in front of it as soon as the witness felt pain, making it appear double. There was also a swirling vortex surrounding it...making it flicker in and out of what looked like a hologram. The entire time, she was trying her best not to succumb to shock because she is naturally a very strong person. She was extremely overwhelmed and it felt like she was subjected to fear and panic. She didn't feel like these emotions were entirely hers, like whatever it was, it was somehow transferring the energy into her. The whole thing took about what seemed 8 minutes and just before it ended, she closed her eyes and felt like she was coming close to a heart attack.

She thought this and as soon as she 'thought it' she heard someone say "It's okay." When she heard that, the panic and fear instantly dropped and she was calm and she carefully glanced over and the room was exactly as it was, but now the beings were gone (her boyfriend was still out). She is still in shock and very edgy, she had never experienced panic like that in her life. She has had sleep paralysis before, however she is definitely convinced that what happened that night was a whole other ordeal.

The witness was driving west on New Kent Highway just before route 106, driving under the speed limit of 45 and he came around a bend and slowed down more because about 30 yards ahead of the car a 'huge bird' was in the center of the road, straddling the dotted line with its back to the witness. New Kent is basically a swamp with islands of high ground. Because of the terrain, housing properties are kind of jammed together on "high ground" with lots and lots of alternating hill/steep ravine wooded land of the swampy kind between. They have all kinds of big bird in the area, like Bald Eagles, ospreys, herons, turkey vultures, etc., so seeing a bird on the road was no real surprise.

What made him stop the car 12 ft. away from it was the fact that the 'dang thing's head was taller than his hood!" The witness could feel himself starting to grin, that grin we do get when we just cannot believe what we are seeing and suspect a joke. It then it opened its wings and the witness knew that it was all too serious. He was on a 2 lane country road with gravel shoulders. The thing's wingtips were touching gravel on both sides. With two slow motion swoops (his window was down and his radio was off so he actually heard its wings pushing the air) it was up and blotting out everything else in his windshield, banked left on a wingtip and glided into the woods between the trees. He remembers craning his head over the steering wheel and up to see all of it as it banked.

He has no idea how long he sat there in the middle of the road with his mouth open, totally blank, mentally feeling like he had been slapped silly. The only word that surface was "Thunderbird". When he finally cruised past where it had cut through the woods, he was looking for it, but did not see it. It was dark colored, looked like a dark charcoal color while on the road, but its feathers were a rust red brown when it launched into the sunlight. Its tail was a long triangle (with a very slight point on the end) like that of a hawk. Its wings were 'just unbelievable". They weren't shaped like a hawk, more like a seagull. Its body was torpedo shaped no neck to speak of and a flat head. Due to the angle he didn't see its face or beak.

Ahead of him about 100 yards, a chevron shaped craft was hovering above the ground approximately 5 feet. One had on red boots, but the other had on boots the same color as the uniform. They were carrying what appeared to be a third unresponsive alien to the craft. They had dark gray skin and appeared to have trouble moving and were somewhat uncoordinated. A beam of blue light was coming from out of the bottom of the craft. The aliens carried the apparent lifeless body of the third alien into the beam and it appeared to take on a rippled appearance like water. Then the light went off and the aliens were gone. northeast corner of his house, just above the roof line and approximately 15ft from the house. He describes how it looked like a solid object. "It looked like a solid object underneath a halo of light surrounding it. I was standing about 30ft away from the object. I was in shock and stood there, frozen, while calling to my 36-year old son to come out to see it, which he did." They both watched as this object for about 20 minutes or so as it hovered in the same spot, wavering somewhat and then it moved to the southeast and they noticed that there were at least 10 more of these objects in the woods at above and below the tree line about 100 yards from their position. The object moved very slowly toward the woods, seeming to be unaware of the witnesses' presence or not care about it. He tried desperately to get his cell phone to come on so he could take a picture but it would not work. He thought the battery was drained, but after the object was out of sight the phone resumed working.

There was a 4-ft tall humanoid being standing next to the tree and a little behind it. It looked grayish, but it was hard to tell in the distance even though there was a full moon out. They just got a glimpse of it before it vanished. When they got back inside he was shocked to see that it was at least 50 minutes to an hour later than they were outside, as it had seemed only like 20 minutes of time had lapsed. Next they heard a helicopter approach and he looked out the window as it flew in the same direction as the UFO. He had never seen a helicopter out there his entire life. They did not go outside to look at it. The next evening his son was in town getting some groceries when he was approached by two policemen. They asked him how he was doing and he believed in aliens or ever saw an alien. He replied that he did not. Later and strangely, his son did not recall the incidents of the previous night for a long time. The witness also wonders how the police knew about the incident and also points out that UFO activity seems to be common in the area.

Heather Quinto (involved in other encounters) and her boyfriend Jose were asleep when she woke up suddenly because she felt like there was something 'off'. She got up out of bed and started to head towards the bedroom door when fear struck inside her and suddenly she didn't want to open the door anymore. She went to sit back down in bed, and then her heart started to race when she realized that there could be 'aliens' manipulating her emotions. She began to get excited because she'd always wanted "to meet one." Then fear struck her again because she was worried about which 'species' waited for her outside that door. She woke up Josh "I think there are aliens here. They're making me feel fear so I won't go open the door." "...You should open the door," said Josh. "No, you go open the door," Heather said. Then suddenly she got this overwhelming feeling that she wanted to open the door, because she wanted to be the first person the aliens saw. "What if they are the 'Tall Whites,'" she said with excitement to Josh. "And if they are not," he said. She shrugged, "then I'd be really disappointed. If they are, then I don't want to bother them. I am sure they're just curious about me since I've been researching them a lot. I'll let them go through our things and explore. They might have children with them and I don't want to scare them and ruin their fun." Josh nodded and went back to sleep. She wondered how he could sleep at a time like this, she thought Josh didn't believe her and she began doubting herself too, thinking that her imagination was running wild. Suddenly their bedroom door opened slowly and she quickly lay back down into bed and pretended to be asleep. She couldn't hear anything so she opened her eyes and saw a "Tall White" female wearing a white jumpsuit, and she was with a young "Tall White" child that was female. They were going through her drawers and the little girl was peering inside and giggled a little. Heather became embarrassed. "What did they see that was so laughable?" They walked across to the other side of the bedroom and peered through the closet. The "Tall White" woman touched and seemed to admire the dresses Heather had hanging up. The little girl started to go through Josh's drawers, and the woman looked at Heather and froze in place. Her little girl froze as well and slowly turned her attention towards Heather. They knew she was awake. Perhaps they had the proper technology on them so that they could read her thoughts, and Heather slowly started to think, "Please do not be scared. I know a lot about your kind and I find your people precious to me. You are more than welcome to come and go as you please, I promise I will not harm you. I love your kind. If you would like, you may take any item from us if you come to like it a lot. I do not mind." They did not respond and they did not move. Heather went on, "I will close my eyes and you can leave. I will not move, I promise." She closed her eyes then seconds later she heard the door shut quietly. She opened her eyes again and decided not to move for the rest of the night just in case they were still there, and she didn't want to break her promise to them.

The light was gaining altitude and moving in his direction. When it began passing above him he could now tell thanks to the bright moonlit sky that it appeared to be a large "bird" with huge wings. The entire front of the bird was glowing bright red. There was no sound. As he watched, it began to circle above him without flapping its wings and then began descending towards him. It slowly flew over and then landed on the roadway besides his house--about 60 meters from his location. The street lamp illuminated the creature clearly enough so he got a very good look at it.

He could only describe it as a "human bird" matching closely the description of the 'mythic Mothman'. However the size was different, this creature was very tall at least 4 meters. The head was very large and red light glowed all around the circumference. It had long legs and a

They were unsure of how many there were but they estimated three. They said it looked like there was one on the left side of the light and one on the right and they were about 5 feet in height, but they were unsure because it was far away. They saw the figures move and sway but not in any extraordinary or fast movement. Next they noticed a huge figure approximately 7 feet in height and 4 feet shoulder width, which was standing behind the light. They are unsure whether it just appeared or if it walked up, or if it was already there and they just didn't noticed it. It was motionless just standing there watching the others one move around. Both witnesses stood and watched the beings in stunned silence for about 10 minutes or so before they

The main witness was at a friend's house (Carol) on the water a half mile from the Gulf of Mexico when they noticed two amber lights toward the west, about the size of a fingernail at arm's length. The lights were no more than 500 feet above sea level and triangulation showed they were 1.5 miles from them and a mile off shore. They watched these lights for 10 to 15 minutes as they slowly drifted north and out of view behind some trees. He came home 2 miles to the north on the southern tip of Captiva Island and at first saw what appeared to be the same two lights. They drifted very slowly to the north and west of the witness until out of sight behind trees. He walked across the street to see the same 2 lights when a 3rd and then fourth, fifth and sixth came on---all initially somewhat horizontal and about as far apart from each other as a slightly outstretched finger at arm's length. These lights turned on and off as if on a dimmer switch. Then a bright white light came on just above the amber ones. He was going back and forth from his house on the bay to the beach and the last thing he remembers, and according to Carol, was seeing a very tall "being" standing on or floating very near the end of the rock jetty at Blind Pass. He left for home after that, very frightened, as was Carol. Later on that night he went back outside and from his backyard he could see that the amber lights had returned.

The main witness, Pamela (involved in other encounters) reported that since moving into her current property she has had numerous experiences of a potentially paranormal nature. There have been two incidents where objects have moved in front of her and many others where objects have inexplicably vanished and reappeared. On numerous occasions she has detected a horrible sewer-like smell on the landing at the top of the stairs. She had the pipes of the house checked but they were completely fine. On other occasions she has heard footsteps and unexplained scratching noises. Several times she has heard these footsteps coming from upstairs when her children have been away for the weekend. One morning her 10 year old daughter Kerry came running into her room as soon as the alarm went off at 6:30 a.m. She was visibly upset. She went on to explain that she had awoken during the night to see four figures in her room. One of them looked like Pamela, but she knew it was not, as she could hear her feeding the cat downstairs. The other three were wearing balaclavas around their heads like "bank robbers". Some of them had red eyes, while others had completely white eyes. The figure which looked like her mother walked and sat down on the end of the bed. Then all began laughing at her. Terrified she hid under her bedclothes and pillow. She must have then dropped off to sleep again despite being frightened. Pamela's 6 year old son Ben started to report seeing "monsters" with red eyes around the house, both at night time and during the day. Kerry claims to have seen a figure walking into Ben's room one evening while she was taking a bath.

The witness went to bed, fell asleep and then his eyes opened a little and he seemed drugged and when he looked up he noticed a round window in front of him about 3 feet off the floor and noticed 3 rolls of paper about 2 ½ feet long under the window. The window seemed thick and about 3 foot in diameter, outside the window it was black. He went to turn his head towards the left to see where he was and it seemed like he was on a high back lounge chair on the floor. When he looked to the left the walls were round and had beams with ancient Greek style lines that turn different ways with rivets and the color was an electric blue and seemed powder coated and lit very dimly and the room seemed like it was about 20 feet in diameter. When he turned a little further to the left he saw another window the same size, outside the window was black and he saw a white light and then "knew" it was the Sun and he began to feel a lot of anxiety because he knew he was in space. He then noticed a man on the left side of the window that looked like a 30-year old man with long hair and he seemed concerned. The witness asked him if anything was wrong and said that everything was "Ok" and added that he was just making sure "no other ships hit us". Then he asked the witness something like "do you want to go somewhere with him" frightened the witness just said that he wanted to go home and in an instant his eyes opened and he was home.

The first 'being' the witness saw was witnesses only by himself (as far as he knows) and it occurred while he was driving down a road adjacent to town. At the end of the road (it is a dead end) he saw a slightly blurred out white being, maybe 4-5 feet in height. It darted into the woods surrounding the road, the sighting probably not lasting for more than 1-2 seconds. No one else in the vehicle seemed to have noticed it, but friends who live on the same road this white entity was sighted seemed to have also witnesses (on separate occasions) a mysterious white figure. "Similar in stature to the Mothman". The second time he saw a white being he was walking in the opposite direction up the very same road. He was looking down at his feet as he walked. There was a sulfurous smell in the air, similar to what he noticed during his UFO encounter around the same time. He looked up, and just before a bend in the road stood a similar (or the same?) white being, still seemingly blurred. It quickly darted around the bend, and he lost sight of it. There were no visible features, other than a white human-like shape. For some reason he thought nothing of it and he simply kept on walking in the same direction, but did not come across it again.

As far as the UFO sighting, the witness was taking a walk only meters away from the bottom of his driveway when he noticed a strange sulfurous smell in the air and then he saw a 'strange plane' fly overhead, which is on itself strange in that area. It looked almost like a NASA Space Shuttle in plane-form. It had an orange stripe on the back and nose, and the rest was white. The orange seemed almost like a separate piece---it actually looked a bit like a missile. But it was moving at a relatively normal speed. Moving on, he walked further down the road only to see and hear more planes---about 4 in total. He was watching one plane when he heard another one behind him, and turned around. A few seconds later a match-head size (from his perspective, since it must have been high in the air) metallic spherical object came into view. He doesn't recall how, it just appeared in his visual range. It flew in a straight trajectory for about 1-3 seconds, until it went over the tree-line and he lost sight of it. He then turned around to find a bullet-shaped craft moving about the same speed as an airplane. It looked high up as well, maybe as thin as two needles put together and as long as a match-head. It made no sound and had no exhaust, like the other craft. It was completely off-white, a little blurry with a grayish black line in the center. It also had a slight tilt upwards to the left. He only saw it for about 2-4 seconds, afterwards he ran home. For a little while afterwards his dogs would look up at the sky when let out. And the television as well as his laptop were doing odd things.

At high altitudes on a clear sky morning there were four blurred, hazy green lights in a line formation with a fourth red light at a 90 degree angle to the lower green light. The object moved vertically up and down from position to position disturbing high altitude clouds. Closer to the ground, no more than a mile up, three smaller single green lights moved around in different directions, covering miles in seconds and returning to hover. Much closer to the ground, hovering silently 20—30 feet up from the observers, two medicine ball size, dull metallic orbs. Both with one small green light towards the top were seen in multiple locations. From the direction of one of these two small round objects came a silver metallic “L” shaped object (not attached but disconnected moving independently) slowly hover/move down 10 feet closer to the ground. From this “L” shaped object came a translucent but with red light within, eel-shaped object about one foot long and 10 inches wide. It came to within feet or inches of one observer. In the distance, hovering no more than 20 feet above the horizon, estimated to be about 1-2 miles away, a large silver metallic disk with a black band running horizontally along the middle seemed to hide behind a tree line. Given away by the sun reflecting on its top.

Recently the hot tub at the Santa Barbara location was closed due to renovations. Needing to use a hot tub badly Eduardo visited his parents in San Francisco and looked up and went to what he thought was the location of a 24hr Fitness in town. When he got there, without noticing anything out of the ordinary he simply opened the door of the location and walked inside. However, after entering he was struck by the fact that the building seemed completely empty and only a few lights were on. Believing he had made a mistake he turned around and attempted to open the door he had just come through only to find it locked. A bit disconcerted he walked towards a light that was on across the room and called out several times. Suddenly out of nowhere there were two beings standing near him. He described them as tall, extremely thin, bone white and with inhumanly large eyes. He indicated how large the eyes were by holding up a circled thumb and forefinger to indicate how much larger than normal they were. He described them as looking like “dead people”. The both wore institutional green coveralls with a breast patch that read “engineering”. He remarked that the coveralls seemed extremely old. They were not terribly polite and told him he was not supposed to be in the building. They led him to another door in the building, not the one he had entered through, and unceremoniously saw him through it. He emerged into an alley that seemed to have an unusually high number of homeless people in it. He described himself as quite frightened by the whole experience, and to others that know him he seemed sincerely upset by the experience.

She attempted to ignore the noise since it was not unusual to hear the dogs barking. What really made her wake up was the fact that she saw a light appear in the room. A very bright light, she opened his eyes thinking at first that it was a family member looking for something, but what she saw really frightened him.

At the foot of the bed was a black colored entity scanning the room with what the witness thinks was a 'flashlight'. At first she thought it was an intruder (human) but when she saw its head he realized that it was not a 'human head'. It had a long jaw and a big round black eye (seen in side view). It was scanning the room as if looking for something or someone, but it wasn't moving it was just standing there. Upon seeing the creature the startled witness must have made a noise since the creature flashed the light towards her and temporarily blinded her. She couldn't open her eyes, no matter how hard she tried. Obviously frightened she attempted to wake her aunt who was sleeping next to her but was unable to. After about 30 seconds or a minute the light disappeared, she was then able to open her eyes again and there was no one there anymore. Very frightened her first reaction was to check if her son was still next to her, which he was. She held him tighter, got under the covers and went back to bed.

The witnesses jumped back when they saw these two small people, almost yelling from the sudden surprise that their sudden appearance had given them. These two small people, both looked male, could not have been any more than 4 feet tall, stocky and looked like they were wearing green three piece suits. The almost looked like they were wearing leprechaun costumes and carrying what looked like walking sticks. They looked at the witnesses for about 5 seconds, no sound, and no movement. They were totally and completely freaked out and decided to get out of there as quickly as possible. They were on top of them, screaming loudly as they bit, scratched and hit the witnesses with the sticks they were carrying. The entities were screaming in such an inhuman way that it sounded like an animal in distress crossed with a "feral human". They were ripping at the witnesses' clothing, swinging at their heads with the sticks they were carrying, all the while laughing and screaming at the top of their lungs. Overpowered, all the witnesses could do was attempt to get away from these creatures and protect their heads from the sticks that the creatures were using. Almost as quickly as it started it ended and they leaped off of the witnesses and bolted towards the trees and disappeared with nothing more than maniacal laughter. The witness (involved in previous incidents) is suddenly completely aware of being in a very lucid dream in which he found himself in a room that's setup exactly like a "classroom". There are desks and chairs setup in rows. The tiles on the floor are large concrete tiles, not unlike something you'd find in a traditional classroom. To the left, he sees that two floor tiles are missing and there is some kind of device on the opposite wall. Immediately he knows what is going on, so he remains totally calm and becomes highly observant. He is looking at everything he can as fast as he can because he knew "something" was going to happen.

He turns around and looks toward the entrance to the classroom. Beyond the entranceway (he doesn't recall seeing a door) there is a hallway that extends about 30-40 feet ahead. The hallway is very plain and not much to look at. He notices that the lighting is mostly reddish, leaving everything red and black so he couldn't get much detail. He was able to see that the hallway straight ahead came to a "T" intersection. From his perspective he is able to tell there is a hallway immediately to the right outside of the entrance way; he is not quite sure if anything is immediately out of the door to the left. It could have been a wall or another hallway, he really couldn't tell. As soon as he was able to get as much information as he could visually, about 12-15 people began to walk into the room---mostly single file. The people looked very human, very typical. There was a lot of diversity within the group, some were white, some were black, and some were Asian. To the best of his knowledge he doesn't recall seeing any females within the group. The group of people looked very normal and nothing out of the ordinary struck him as strange except that everyone was between 4-5 feet tall. Everyone he walked near to, was at least a shoulder shorter than him.

He knew immediately these were aliens, not because they were much smaller than him, but because he "felt" them telepathically, his head was "lit-up" in their presence, so he knew immediately that they were presenting themselves as "human" and everything was a façade. As they entered the room, each took a seat behind a desk and everyone was paying attention to the witness. It wasn't long before a male Caucasian entered the room. This being a blondish-brown short beard that rose up to hair alongside his head---the top of his head was bald. His beard and what little hair he had around his head was well kept and clean cut---very similar to "Ben Bernanke". His eyes were bluish and the top of his head came up to the witness' shoulder level. The group of aliens all stood up briefly to acknowledge the captain and sat back down. This was done in a way as if showing the 'captain' or leader respect. The witness is not really sure if this being was the leader but the others clearly felt he was in charge and he felt also that this being was in charge. He felt a sort of connection with the others in the room "very hard to describe". He smiled at the "captain" just to let him know that he was comfortable.

The witness initiated the conversation by saying, "You don't have to do this. You can present yourselves in your natural state. I am not afraid anymore, I promise."

The captain replied, "It's easier this way."

The witness pressed the issue a bit but didn't argue, he already "kind" of knew what they 'looked' like from years ago when the witness experienced an event with the alien holding a baby. But it "tried like hell" not to let the witness see its face, but he was able to still get a quick glimpse. None of the communication was verbal it was all telepathic. The captain and the group wanted to show the witness technology involving matter. Looking around there wasn't any (visible) technology other than two tiles missing on the floor and the device along the right wall. When he took a closer look at the two missing tiles, there was nothing under the floor---just blackness. What was strange was that there was "perfect" blackness---even though they were in a well-lit room. Perfect blackness as if---there wasn't anything beyond the level of the tiles. He took a piece of chalk that was sitting near the chalkboard and threw it into the hole that was closest to the entrance. The moment the chalk hit the blackness it immediately shot up from the other missing tile area with the exact same trajectory and speed. It was almost as if the one hole was a perfect portal to the other hole. He has no idea why but he jumped up with his arms pressed against his body and jumped into the first hole and he immediately shot through the next hole---instantly. He almost didn't make a good landing because he nearly lost his footing and he felt an overwhelming sense of panic from the group. He doesn't think they expected him to actually jump in the hole, but at the same time no one suggested he couldn't so he thought that it was safe. The leader made a comment along the lines of, "Don't do that again, it's very dangerous, if you fall back in, you will be gone forever."

One of the other crew members led him to the device along the right wall, it was explained to the witness that that matter can be created. When he asked how so, the alien said something along the lines of, "Think of something, concentrate hard. The machine will show your image." He has no idea why but the first thing that came to his mind was a single story brick building. Then an image displayed exactly what he pictured in his mind. The crew member then instructed him to take a light pen (almost like a laser) and shine the beam of light around a part of the object that he wanted to create. He did what he was told and highlighted a corner of the building with what appeared to be a red beam. That part of the building turned red as it was selected. For some reason he wanted to hold that piece of the building, so the hologram machine must have understood the scale that he desired. Out of nowhere his entire selection manifested and presented itself in the air in front of the machine so he picked up. What was once literally $\frac{1}{4}$ of the size of an actual building was reduced to a scale that fit within the palm of his hand. Even the bricks were tiny. The captain explained that consciousness was the master of matter and that in the beginning, consciousness created matter, matter was not the creator of consciousness. The general feeling he got was that matter could be manipulated. The technical discussing didn't go beyond the differentiation between matter and consciousness. He felt like the leader was saying there were two classifications of everything within the universe (and beyond): consciousness and everything else (matter). Consciousness can control its environment, if the consciousness is strong enough. He asked the leader if he was referring to our soul. He replied by saying something along the lines of, "Not in the way you define the word soul." The witness was led to believe that consciousness was everything---the most powerful. Everything was a result of consciousness. He asked if he could try again, and the group obliged. He wanted to think of something random just to test the limits, so he concentrated hard on a bag of "Doritos". A bag of Cool-Ranch Doritos appeared within the hologram and "willed" a smaller bag because he didn't want to eat a full bag (in front of the aliens). The bag manifested in the air and he pulled it down into his hands. He broke the bag opened and ate a Doritos chip--it was perfect, just like the real thing. He was fascinated, so he ate a few chips. One of the crewmembers then said, "I am fascinated by his primitiveness." Apparently the witness took offense to the remark and told the aliens that "they lacked a sense of humor". This led to a sort of a back and forth argument between the witness and the apparent leader. The leader then said that the witness remind him of himself when he was at the witness' stage of development. At this time the leader telepathically "connected" with the witness and created an illusion which both experienced. He found himself in a two room living quarters. It resembled a small studio apartment with a bathroom off to the side. It was very plain and it looked very human-like as a dwelling, however it was extremely plain lacking any visible knick-knacks, decorations, art, etc. There was a small window in the bathroom and a small window near the main door. The leader told the witness that this is where he lived when he had been at the witness' stage in development. The witness understood that consciousness existed within our "body type" with all exist in a similar fashion, regardless of their race. This only lasted a few moments and he was back in the classroom with the others. In fact he is sure he never left---the leader had just created an illusion that they had left. Right around this time the crew began to exit the room and down the hall to the right and the witness knew that the time was up. He finished his bag of "Doritos" while he waited for the crew to exit the room and he left the bag on a desk as he followed the last alien (the leader) out of the room. After some more brief interaction with the leader the witness' next memory was of opening his eyes on his bed, wide awake, the time was 4:45 a.m.

The witness was playing basketball outside at night and was just dribbling the ball when something caught his attention out of the corner of his eye. He looked at the top of the wooden gate/fence that was behind the hoop and saw something with big eyes looking at him. As soon as they made eye contact, the figure dropped behind the fence. He ran to the fence and looked behind it and the thing was gone. The whole thing lasted about 3-4 seconds. He thought he was just seeing things so he kept the whole ordeal to himself. However the witness was to experience another encounter (soon after the above date). He had just dropped off his friends at their house and was now coming up to his house and had started to pull into the driveway when he looked down the small hill to the base of the driveway and saw this 2-3 feet tall, grayish, greenish, bluish creature with an abnormally large head and big eyes run across the driveway, around the fence and towards the back of his house. He was so scared that he swerved away from his driveway and drove around the neighborhood until he felt it was okay to go back home. When he got home no one was awake so he immediately turned on all the lights of the house and went to bed. While in bed he heard a strange whistling noise coming from outside his window. His cellphone then turned off for no reason, it took a long time for it to go back on again. Both incidents occurred after severe thunderstorms in the area.

The witness was driving home while it was still light out. She was on Rezanof Street heading toward (Benny Benson) when she noticed movement from a black object over the tree tops just about over the Mission Beach area. She turned left on Benny Benson and pulled over on Mission Road to get a better view. Two people came out of a house to their vehicle. She pointed it out to them. They asked her if it was a person, but she said she had no idea. It headed out over the ocean. He drove over to Mission Beach and parked. She called her husband at home. Their home overlooks the water. She watched it until it was almost a dot. She then drove home, her husband had watched it with a pair of binoculars until it was out of sight. It headed straight out to sea. According to the witness she was able to see what appeared to be two legs and two arms held out in front. At first it appeared to be facing south and then it turned and headed out to sea.

The 16-year old witness went outside one night working on a theory "that UFO's communicate by light". He has bracelets that light up, so he went outside at night with his bracelets turned on. He thought that night would be a good night to investigate because the air that night smelled almost metallic (ozone?). After a while he begun to get a very uneasy feeling and went inside and went to bed, when he woke up, there was a very tall being in his bedroom. He couldn't see a face, he thinks it may have been wearing some kind of helmet. Despite its height it seemed frail, its arms were long, but skinny and its head was very large despite the rest of its body being slender. It used the witness' mother's voice to speak and told him he had to come with it. The witness then asked the being why and it simply reiterated the fact that he had to come with it, but this time its voice didn't sound so much like the witness' mother, it had a robotic undertone to it. The witness asked it where would they be going and it just said, "I need you to come to my base with me". He still didn't want to go and was trying to find a reason to give it so he didn't have to go, so he asked it where its base was and it said, "Is not underground" so he told it that he couldn't go with it because it wasn't underground. Up to this point the witness had not been afraid, it felt like he had been having a "normal conversation". But the last time he said no, the being got angry with him. He doesn't remember anything else for a while then he was back in his bedroom and he felt sick, he was dry heaving, he had a headache and his throat was incredibly sore and he kept coughing. He checked his phone and it was around 2:30 am, he had gone to bed at 12 midnight. The things that he remember the most about the entity was that it was tall enough to have to stoop inside his bedroom. It appeared to be wearing white clothing, almost like a robe but not quite. There seemed to be a kind of glow coming from behind it, like a white light.

Time: 01:00 a.m.

The witness was spending a weekend out by Lake Arcadia, the fraternity that he was a member of (which is part of a nearby University) just finished having their back to school get together with some of their members. The location of the site was right by the shore of the lake. It was about one o'clock in the morning and he was the last one there and had been alone for around thirty minutes. It was his responsibility that night to let no one drive back home while intoxicated and make sure the camp site was in good shape when they were done. As a result of his duties that night he was completely sober and had not been drinking or using any drugs. Right after he loaded the last bag of trash in the back of his truck he had this strange urge to look at the lake. The best way to describe that feeling was as if had been day dreaming. There was nothing unusual going on out on the lake and then all of the sudden there was a bright glowing light under the water. At this particular distance he could not tell exactly how large the circle was but it was big. The shape was circular and had a light green/yellowish glow with occasional pulsating red and blue lights. He stared at it dumbfounded as it moved slowly under the water from one side of the lake to the opposite side. The object moved from one side and back to the other two or three more times for about five minutes then it stopped almost near the center of the lake. The object glowed brighter and brighter then shot straight out of the water and into the sky.

After that he turned around and ran as fast as he could to his truck. Once he got to his truck he stopped and fumbled around in his pockets for a couple of seconds looking for his keys and seemingly out of nowhere a bright light appeared above and slightly behind him. He turned around to see what was behind him and there was a "giant ship". It wasn't saucer-shaped but was shaped more like a layered cake. It was not on the ground, but just hovered around twenty to thirty feet off the ground for a couple of seconds. It then shot back into the sky. He turned back to his truck door and tried to unlock it when he caught something out of the corner of his eye. He jumped back against the side of his truck and about 15 feet away stood three people staring at him that had not been there prior to the incident. There were two very attractive women and one very tall man that was at least ten feet high. All of them had blonde hair that was almost white and blue eyes. They did not say anything to him directly but he heard one of the women's voice in his head. She said, "(My name) please do not be afraid. You have an important role to play if you would like to help us." He said out loud in a shaky voice, "Okay but I don't know how?" Then the woman said, "Don't worry you will know in time." Right after she said that everything went black. Eventually he woke up at around two thirty, lying about thirty feet away from his last remembered position at the side of his truck.

Her yard was illuminated, so she walked outside onto the porch and suddenly noticed a 'wide disc-shaped craft' hovering above the house. It was at least 100 feet wide. In an instant she was struck by a beam of light and lifted off the top step of the porch. She was in mid-air for almost 20 seconds, and then slowly set down by the side of the tool barn. She felt very groggy, almost as if she were 'drunk'. She then noticed a figure moving out of a beam of blue light that came directly from below the craft. This figure was about 5 feet tall and looked human---but the extremities and head looked as though it had been "burned or charred." Reminding her of a typical movie "zombie". It then moved closer to her---she was literally frozen stiff. As it got closer she became nauseated---it looked and awful and had a putrid odor. It then backed away as the witness started to wretch, and then vanished into the blue beam of light. Without hesitation, the craft ascended swiftly---so fast that it created an instant vacuum that dropped her to her knees. She got to her feet and ran into the house. She was scared and worried that something else may happen. Then she noticed the time---it was 22:40, she had lost almost one hour of time. She still does not understand what happened to her or the time. She feels fine but is still very concerned. More recently there has been talk that 'weird-looking' people were seen moving through a local field this past weekend. There was also a series of lights seen above the horizon at the same location. She is not sure if this is related.

A husband and wife had gone to bed for the night in their master bedroom in the upstairs of the house. They had just sold the house and were getting ready to move so their bed was just a mattress on the floor. The husband liked to go to sleep listening to something in his headphones so he was lying in "bed" trying to fall asleep listening to Coast to Coast AM. He had been lying there for at least 1 hour because that's how far along the show was. He wasn't sleepy yet and was listening intently to the show with the eyes closed when the audio began going in and out. It was then that the feeling that he wasn't alone came over him. He was lying on his right side with his wife to his back, he opened his eyes and the room was lit in a pale orange glow. He rolled over towards his wife and that was when he saw three "typical Gray" aliens standing in his master bedroom about 5 feet from his wife's side of the bed. He couldn't make out their faces. But he could tell they were thin and had large heads. He could see their outlines perfectly because of the orange glow that was emanating from the bathroom window that they were standing in front of. He could tell they were wearing some kind of tight-fitting suit that was a darker color than their gray skin. He immediately started screaming and grabbed his wife in fear. She woke up and also started screaming and then broke into prayer in her native Romanian language. The three entities then transformed into 3 orange glowing balls and floated through the walls of the bathroom. His wife began screaming again. The orange glow faded quickly as soon as the last orb passed through the wall. About 3 seconds later there were 3 quick flashes of white light that came through all 4 of the windows in the bedroom and it was over. They had a roommate that shared a wall with their bedroom that never even woke up as the couple screamed. They both got up and looked out the windows immediately but saw nothing.

The witness was on a small island hunting for geese and fishing. There was no wind, clear sky and lots of star visible, the water was also calm, so hearing was optimal. He was on his way to meet his friend on the other side of the island when he caught sight of a moving silhouette, on the higher part of the island. It was walking very calmly, almost like "sneaking". His immediate thought was that it had to be his friend, and thought that his friend was going to "pull a prank on him". So the witness yelled at the figure "YOOOOOOOO" and it immediately stopped and turned only his head towards the witness. The witness had with him a flashlight, but since his friend had admonished him before for turning on the flashlight and ruining his "night vision" he did not turn on the flashlight. After about 3 seconds the figure began to walk towards the thick foliage area. Surprised, and still thinking it was his friend the witness thought, "What the heck is he doing?"

So he went up to see where and why his friend was doing this, because it made no sense that he was going into that area. Upon arrival he saw his friend coming up the same path the being or figure had headed. Both horrified and surprised he ran up to his friend and asked him, if he had just run down again towards the water, after just being here. He replied, no, and noticed the witness' surprise. So he told his friend that they were not alone on the island, which is very small and anyone can walk the whole island in just five minutes. They searched the entire area, meter by meter with a 4500 lumen powerful flashlight and found nothing or trace of anyone else being there. The witness could not explain what he saw and could only describe the figure as humanoid in shape, dark, he could not see any colors, or any sign of clothing that would normally protrude or break the line in or out of a silhouette. Also the horizon was bright, due to some twilight in the distance. He is convinced that it couldn't have been a human because it vanished out of air. If someone would have swam away they would have definitely heard it or even seen him or her while inspecting the island. That same night when they went to their tent they were awoken by a pulsating vibration. The witness is a heavy sleeper but this vibration managed somehow to wake him, it was not normal and he thinks his brain must have picked up as a “threat” or something unusual. His friend also woke up from the vibration. Also previously he had seen a lot of “light movement” in the sky in the same area.

The silhouette was tall, thin, with a normal sized head, perhaps up to 6’6” in height. He saw it from the torso up as it was too dark to see its legs.

The startled witness put his foot down and as he sped by the creature watched him go, never blinking. He was so frightened that he even locked the doors and rolled up the windows. After he picked up his partner he drove past the same spot and went a little slower. The figure was gone, but where it had been, the grass was flattened, so something had definitely been there. Several residents of Vicuña and vicinity have reported the collision of a hitherto unidentified flying object in a hill near Vicuña, in the interior of Valle del Elqui. According to eyewitnesses, who took the photograph attached to this story, the event occurred around 16:00 hours on Sunday when an object---flying at considerable altitude---zig-zagged for a few minutes before plummeting into a hill in the sector known as La Compañía. A worker at a Vicuña hostel (who requested confidentiality) stated that "the object made several turns in the sky until it began to lose altitude and fall on top of a hill. People began climbing the hill just to see it, but it's rather far away. It's almost the size of a railcar."

The photograph shows an object that shines in the sunlight, suggesting that it could be a metallic object or some sort of weather balloon. It should be noted that this is not the first time that Valle de Elqui has reported UFO sightings. The most spectacular case was the alleged crash of a UFO in Paihuano, which has been studied by a number of Ufologists, although there is no record of the object in question.

She even remarked to researcher Raul Guajardo Leopold that there is neither public nor private lighting in this part of her house. She did, however, noticed a sort of spark or noise in the flash at the moment the photo was taken, which we mention for purposes of subsequent analyses. The distance separating her from the shrubs appearing in the photo is some four meters, and their height is also close to four meters. Upon seeing the image recovered from the device, she was rightly astonished to see a transparent entity with light sources in its body over to the right hand side of the photograph. There was no doubt about it: the silhouette of a person with a very clearly defined outline (arms, head and back) could be seen at first sight. The encounter started by the witness observing a bright light over the trees not too far from his house that illuminated the area around it. A few nights ago he was standing on his balcony looking at the stars when he saw a very bright white pulsating light over a forested mountain a pair of blocks away. It was so bright that it seemed to light the trees around it like daylight. After a few minutes a glowing white ball looking object started to slowly rise above the trees, it was very bright but not blinding and did not seem to bother his eyes. The ball sat in the air maybe 10 meters above the top of the trees and just hovered for around 10 seconds before just disappearing. It just seemed to switch off. At this point the witness got into his car and drove around the block down to where the forest begins and he got out and walked into the forest. He could not hear anything as he walked towards the general direction where the ball had first appeared. Suddenly at about 30 meters away another bright ball came into view, he could clearly see silhouettes walking around and past the ball. He attempted to get closer but could "not make himself move". Then a really kind sounding voice from behind him said, "Don't be afraid" and then suddenly he was able to move again which caused him to fall face first into the ground. He rolled over and standing over him was a very tall man with long white-blond hair and very pale skin wearing a white one-piece "fluffy outfit". The strange man resembled an albino. The man leaned over and assisted the witness to his feet. At this point the witness noticed something really strange. The main witness, Niki Stavrianopoulos (involved in other encounters) and a friend had decided to walk down to the pier and while they were sitting down looking at the moon (it was a beautiful bright full moon), a man (around late 30's) came up to them carrying a bag, a bucket and a fishing rod. In this town it is a common sight for people to fish especially on the pier, but not so early. Anyway since it was winter, the sun had set around 6:30pm or 7pm so it was pretty dark by then. Something struck Niki as odd about the man but she didn't think much about it. Her friend and Niki continued talking and at one point, the 'fisherman' butted in with a, "So you girls here to watch the moon?" Niki's friend is quite shy around people so she just remained quiet and let Niki do the talking. She nodded and they made some small talk before she went back to talk with her friend. Sometime passed and the stranger asked something about the constellations and specifically about Orion's Belt, if they could point it out to him. Niki pointed it out. He then asked which was the brightest star next to it and Niki responded, "I think is Sirius." Basically he continued quizzing her about the stars and their connection to mankind. He then asked her what she thought about the pyramids of Giza, then ley lines and then Nibiru. At this point Niki became interested in how he knew the name since she didn't expect a 'fisherman' in a small town to know about such things. He gave a vague reply about reading it on 'the Internet'. Niki noticed that quite some time had passed and the stranger had not caught any fish. It was as if he didn't know. He was idly throwing the line out, watching and then drawing it back in, repeating the process several times.

Niki kept her reply vague as well and started getting suspicious. His questions then took a very religious demeanor and he was asking about life after death and why our ancestors buried their dead and "stuff like that". The last few topics felt too random to Niki, as if he had thrown them in to have more variety. He didn't seem to have much to say about those either. At one point he asked Niki if she knew what an Indigo Child was and what a Star Child was. Naturally she replied with what she had read about the subject in the past. About one and a half hours had passed and the strangers always maintained his answers vague. Niki's cellphone rang and she said she had to go. At this point the stranger leaned closer to Niki and told her, "What you are doing girl...researching about these things, it needs to stop. You're smart, I can see it in your eyes, but these things are dangerous. Don't look much into Nibiru and the Annunaki because you won't like what you'll find. Go and stay out of trouble". This really struck Niki as very odd and her friend became extremely frightened, and began half-dragging her away from the pier. The next thing she noticed, from a distance as they were walking away, as that the stranger was packing his stuff to leave. Normally a fisherman would much later. She and her friend then left.

The witness was driving along highway 39 out of Klamath Falls and as he was entering the town of Merrill he noticed a pure bright white pointy edged kind of rectangular light emanating from an object silhouetted by the houses behind it in a field about 50-60 feet away from the witness off the main road. Although it was dark out still he could make out a pie plate shaped object about 20 feet in diameter with a sort of dip missing from one side. It was on that side that he noticed more than two but no more than four small 'persons' around it. He got the impression that they were 'working'. He did not pay much attention to them as he slowed to make out what he was looking at. Suddenly he got a stabbing feeling in him that the people around the object were alarmed he had noticed them and was he was staring at. He could not make them out because of the dark but he thought maybe they were a mix of children and teens or possibly women because of the height and frame, they stopped whatever they were doing and stood still. He entered town and lost sight temporarily of the object and figures. He was driving a U-Haul truck and was towing a car trailer. It was difficult for him to make a U-turn to take a longer look at the weird object and when he returned after maybe only three minutes it was no longer there only a kind of haze or fog remained. He scanned the sky hanging his head out the window and noticed a blinking red beacon for aircraft like the kind all over the area on mountains and towers. This beacon was about maybe 50 feet above a closed store or business, he stared at it realizing that nothing was holding this "beacon" up. It was apparently trying to 'mock' the other beacons all over the area.

The flashing stopped and then red and white lights came on all around the outside of the craft then began to go around the circumference of it in sequence, white then red then white...he knew it was definitely a disk at that point. The front (or what he assumed was the front) tilted downward about 20 degrees and began to slowly fly off at a casual helicopter speed. He listened intently for any noise and it made no noticeable sound at all. First it flew southeast and then about a mile away it changed direction toward where the witness estimated Mt. Shasta is located. Then continuing at the same speed it flew out of sight from the witness. At that point he drove around a bit investigating the edge of town where the craft had landed. He noticed a couple of strange things. Like a man in the house closest to the landing site sitting in front of a large pane window with no blinds being completely oblivious to the witness accidentally getting a giant truck stuck on his front lawn when he had attempted another U-turn. Almost as if the man had been in some sort of trance. He continued on his way and once he got to the wooded area of the drive by the Lava Flows Monument his truck lost power and slowed almost to a stop for no apparent reason. Most of his attempts to make calls or texts were stopped short by no signal in areas signals had never been a problem for him. He felt both watched and not alone the rest of his drive to Reno and occasionally still feel watched and not alone even very recently.

Time: midnight

The sleeping witness was suddenly awakened by several laser-like red beams of light which seemed to come from the direction of the TV across the room. The red beams spread out and lit the room with a light so intense it reminded the witness of pyrotechnics. As the light scattered, it collected in the corners along the walls and ceiling and bounced around (similar to sparklers) before dissipating. In the next moment he was aware of a tall thin human-shaped being to the right of the bed. He was wearing head to toe black with some kind of sparkles all over but not an intense covering of sparkles. As the witness was processing what he was seeing he was not fearful, primarily due to the sparkles which in his mind ruled out a criminal element. The sparkles could have even been residual from the light that predicated the appearance of the being. As these thoughts were going through his mind, he hid his face and then decided to take another look and raised his head. The being was standing in the same place on the far side of the bed to the right, about 6 feet from the witness. His arms were crossed in front of his chest but he didn't notice his hands, nor could he see the lower legs. As he stood there with arms crossed, he took a step forward with one foot and turned his head to the left to look at the witness. The witness placed his head down again and when he looked up a moment later the being was gone. Rather anticlimactic, but the witness wonders if he will be back.
